Solder Dot Cans Update

In September of 2015, three historic solder dot cans containing paper labels were sent to the Maryland Archaeological Conservation Center for cleaning and stabilization. These cans are part of a collection of objects unearthed during the relocation of the Fountain House (370 Main Street) in March of 2015. Upon close inspection of the recovered objects, three of the discarded cans contained a soldered seam along the side and the characteristic hole left in the lid of the can. This type of can, sometimes referred to as "hole-in-top" or "solder-dot" cans, would have been manufactured in the last quarter of the 19th century. What made these cans truly unique were the paper labels that were still intact. One of the labels on the can read "Batavia Preserving Company" of Batavia, New York.

In December, the Deadwood Historic Preservation Commission received an update on the solder dot can conservation project from the Maryland Archaeological Conservation Center. Metals conservator Francis Lukezic first tested the ink on the labels to ensure they were not water soluble and proceeded to apply Japanese Kizukishi tissue paper to the top of the paper labels using wheat starch paste, commonly used in paper conservation. Once the paste dried, Ms. Lukezic slowly and carefully separated the paper label from the cans. The cans were then placed in a desalination solution of sodium hydroxide. Upon the completion of the desalination, Ms. Lukezic began cleaning the reverse side of the paper labels with eraser crumbs and then applied a Japanese tissue backing to stabilize the paper label. Once the paste dried, she turned the label over and used water to remove the Japanese tissue that is on the front of the label and began the delicate cleaning of the front of the labels using eraser crumbs. In March of 2017, Ms. Lukezic is going to present her conservation treatments for this project at the Middle Atlantic Archaeological Conference during a session on archaeological conservation.

Why do People Die Shoveling Snow?

Snowmageddon, Snowpocalypse, the Polar Vortex, SnOMG!

There is no end to the terms for "really big snowstorm," and those terms came in handy, particularly during the 2014-'15 winter. Just check out snowfall totals in the Top 10 Snowiest Cities, according to Accuweather.com:

- Syracuse, NY 117.1"
- Worchester, MA 115.6"
- Buffalo, NY 109.3"
- Boston, MA 108.6"
- Erie, PA 104"
- Rochester, NY 96.3"
- South Bend, IN 79.2"
- Grand Rapids, MI 77.9"
- Providence, RI 73.5"
- Manchester, NH 69.7"

But with really big snow storms – and even every day, run-of-the-mill snowfalls – comes a risk of death by shoveling. According to CBS News in Chicago, by early February 2015, around 18 people in the Chicago area had died in snow shoveling-related incidents. They ranged in age from their 40s to 75. Nationwide, snow shoveling is responsible for thousands of injuries and as many as 100 deaths each year.

So, why so many deaths? Shoveling snow is just another household chore, right?

Not at all, says Harvard Health Executive Editor Patrick J. Skerrett.

"Picking up a shovel and moving hundreds of pounds of snow, particularly after doing nothing physical for several months, can put a big strain on the heart," Skerrett wrote in February 2013.

Pushing a heavy snow blower also can cause injury. And, there's the cold factor. Cold weather can increase heart rate and blood pressure. It can make blood clot more easily and constrict arteries, which decreases blood supply. This is true even in healthy people. Individuals over the age of 40 or who are relatively inactive should be particularly careful.

National Safety Council recommends the following tips to shovel safely.

- Do not shovel after eating or while smoking
- Take it slow and stretch out before you begin
- Shovel only fresh, powdery snow; it's lighter
- Push the snow rather than lifting it
- If you do lift it, use a small shovel or only partially fill the shovel
- Lift with your legs, not your back
- Do not work to the point of exhaustion

Don't pick up that shovel without a doctor's permission if you have a history of heart disease. If you feel tightness in the chest or dizziness, stop immediately. A clear driveway is not worth your life.

Snow Blower Safety

Be safe with these tips from the American Society for Surgery of the Hand and the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons:

- If the blower jams, turn it off
- Keep your hands away from the moving parts
- Do not drink alcohol and use the snow blower
- Be aware of the carbon monoxide risk of running a snow blower in an enclosed space
- Refuel your snow blower when it is off, never when it is running

OPPORTUNITIES TO RECYCLE

Ghost Murals Coming Back Alive

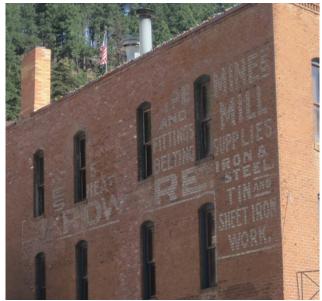

The City of Deadwood Historic Preservation Office is visiting a program to restore the ghost murals on historic structures in Deadwood. Ghost signs, also referred to as fading ads and brick ads, are old hand-painted advertising signs that have been preserved on a building for an extended period.

Signs speak of the people who run the businesses, shops and firms. Signs are signatures. They reflect the owner's tastes and personality. They often reflect the ethnic makeup of a neighborhood and its character, as well as the social and business activities carried out there. By giving concrete details about daily life in a former era, historic signs allow the past to speak to the present in ways that buildings by themselves do not. And multiple surviving historic signs on the same building can indicate several periods in its history or use. In this respect, signs are like archeological layers that reveal different periods of human occupancy and use.

Historic signs give continuity to public spaces, becoming part of the community memory. They sometimes become land-marks in themselves, almost without regard for the building to which they are attached, or the property on which they stand. Furthermore, in an age of uniform franchise signs and generic plastic "box" signs, historic signs often attract by their individuality: by a clever detail, a daring use of color and motion, or a reference to particular people, shops, or events.

The City of Deadwood categorizes wall signs as Existing Landmark Signs, 15.32.320, which prevents removal or alteration, but does allow restoration under the guidance of the Historic Preservation Officer. These signs are exempt from compliance with the regulations of City Ordinance, provided they are structurally sound and are not hazardous.

Streets and Sidewalk Snow Removal

The Deadwood Public Works Department reminds you cars need to be removed from the street during snow removal. The streets will be posted one day in advance. If your car is not removed prior to snow removal it will be ticketed and towed. Sidewalks need to be cleared within 24 hours after the snow stops falling. Failure to clear your sidewalk will result in it being completed by the City. A fee of $71.50 per man hour will be charged if the City is required to clear the sidewalk. Snow should not be shoveled or blown into the street after the street has been cleaned. Thank you for your cooperation.
